FAQ

Q. Why is Accounting important to my organization?

A. Accounting allows you to determine quickly your organization's financial state and whether it has adequate funds to cover costs. Keeping your income and expenses in order will also help when filing annual return documents at the end of the year. A bookkeeper will help you maintain good record keeping and prepare for any audit, minimize fines and late payments; and facilitate the annual filing process.

Q. What is a balance sheet and how can it help me?

A. The balance sheet shows a snapshot of the organization's financial position, including assets and liabilities. Assets are things owned by the organization. Liabilities are items owed to others. Balance sheets show you and your potential donors that funding is being utilized effectively to sustain the organization's mission fulfilling programs.

Q. Do I really need to create a balance sheet each month?

A. If your organization is really small, you can manage it fine without creating a balance sheet each month. But any size organization, including a part-time one, needs to create a good profit and loss statement each month. If inventories or accounts receivables are important in your organization, balance sheets will clearly point out any significant fluctuations you should be aware of.

Q. What is an income statement?

A. An income statement (often called profit and loss statement or P&L) is the scorecard for an organization. It shows the revenue, expenses and profit or loss. It shows these things for some period of time, usually a month or a year. An income statement is usually titled "Income Statement for X Organization for the period January 1 to December 31."

Q. How can the Profit & Loss Statement (Income Statement) help me?

A. The income statement tells you if you are remaining cost-effective and shows your costs and expenses. It shows where the organization is spending its money and its income sources. If you are not covering expenses, the Profit & Loss Statement can show where the organization may be able to cut costs.

FAQ Continued

Q. What is the process for monthly bookkeeping?

A. When you first sign up for bookkeeping services, we email you an order confirmation and service agreement. After signing the service agreement, we will forward you an email providing access to our client only web tools & questionnaire. After you complete this questionnaire and submit your bookkeeping documents your order will be assigned to a service consultant for completion. After the first month, you do not need to resend the questionnaire, only your bookkeeping documents for that month.

Q. What will I receive with monthly bookkeeping?

A. Each month, after we have received your bookkeeping documents we will log them in QuickBooks, reconcile bank and credit card accounts and prepare your financial reports (P&L and Balance Sheet). Other bookkeeping related reports QuickBooks offers can be provided upon request.

Q. What do I need to provide CharityNet for monthly bookkeeping services?

A. We have created a document checklist that you will want to keep to inform you of items to send each month. Not all items on the list may apply to your organization so do not worry if something is not applicable to your organization. Typical documents include copies of bank statements, credit card/loan statements, copies of checks, copies of receipts for purchases, and income source information (i.e. donor receipts, fundraisers, grants, etc.).
